Throwzini's Knife Block-It Rocks! Cuz' It Spins -

I didn't think that kitchen knife blocks could get any cooler or more macabre than the Voodoo Knife Holder, but that was until I discovered the spinning wheel of death inspired Throwzini's Knife Block. Now you can have all the sheer excitement and certain danger of a circus knife throwing act right in your very own kitchen. This unique knife block comes with 5 stainless steel razor sharp professional chef knives that are stored around the body of an "assistant" and held securely in place by magnets in each individual protective knife sheath. Best of all, it actually spins! Unfortunately, since the handcrafted knife block is made of wood, it probably wouldn't be wise to store any flaming cutlery. Definitely, the perfect gift for ringmasters, carnies and all who love to watch morbid acts of death-defying skills!

TORTURE THAT RED GUY

Throwzini's Knife Block causes no apparent harm to the hapless red dude. Store the five included stainless steel knives in a tortured sort of peace, each mercifully missing the red guy, who's this time strapped onto a spinning Wheel of Death.

GEEKOLOGIE

The Throwzini Knife Block isn't your ordinary knife receptacle. Okay it is, but at least it looks good.

Throwzini Knife Block to vent out your anger

If the All men are Bastards knife didn't serve the purpose and you thought it to be a bit ouchy then try the Throwzini Knife Block. Inspired by the spinning wheel of death, don't you think that you can now master the art of throwing knives in your kitchen. No dear you cannot do all that. 5 stainless steel razor sharp professional chef knives will remain secured in their respective places with magnets. You can just keep the wheel spinning and let your younger one clap her hands over the fact that none of the knife fell off. The handcrafted knife block is made of wood.

No clue about the pricing but then wait till the folks at Urbantrend spin out the price list.

looks good. it resembles the 'Rotating Wheel of Puncture Wounds' I saw at a circus once as a kid. awesome
